LINDA OLSON
MAYOR OF ENGLEWOOD

Englewood was named an All-America City Finalist by the National Civic League! We are amongst 20 finalists for the nationwide 2021 award, which is focused this year on cities that are building equity and resilience.

The National Civic League has been around for 125 years, focusing on inspiring, supporting and celebrating civic engagement. The League is known nationally for its leadership in strategic planning, conducting community-wide dialogues and coaching local leaders for stronger civic participation. Being recognized by this historic organization focused on strengthening civic participation and health is an award in itself.

Three community-driven projects were highlighted in our application. First was our Inclusive Police Reform that involved an extensive review of existing police and safety-related programs, use of force policies including discipline and alternate policing, solicitation of expert advice, community participation and final implementation of reform recommendations. Our second project highlighted the excellence in our economic vitality and support programs through COVID-19 challenges and beyond. Our third project focused on strengthening emergency preparedness and stormwater resiliency following the tragedy of our flood in July 2018.

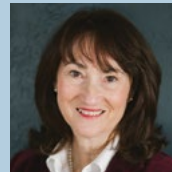

What I appreciate most about our application was the recognition of where change needed to occur. This was not an application that pretended we were the best. Instead, it showed the grit and hard work of many in our community to recognize areas of weaknesses and even failures and the collaboration we have built to address those areas together. This is a real mark of the American resiliency and values so important to building a thriving civil society.

On June 7-9, we will participate with the other 19 finalists, including Dallas, Fort Lauderdale, Richmond, and our neighbor, Wheat Ridge, in a virtual conference. This will include presentations from residents, nonprofit leaders, business reps, government officials and our youth. Our presentations and workshop engagement will determine whether we are chosen among the final 10 recognized cities.

As the mayor and a professor of leadership and civic engagement, I could not be prouder of the work the City of Englewood, which includes you, has done to achieve this level of recognition. Let's continue the work of equity and resilience by staying engaged in solving problems and seizing opportunities to bring out the best in our community. DAVE CUESTA

The City of Englewood is currently in the process of gaining community input that will contribute to the rewrite of the Title 16/Unified Development Code (UDC). The UDC is a comprehensive document that serves as the primary regulatory source for both commercial and residential development within the city. The UDC includes regulations and design standards that address zoning, land uses, building setbacks, building height, parking, landscaping, neighborhood character and other items.

In my several years as a council member, the standards covered by the UDC have been one of the most common issues citizens raise with me. As growth and development continue rapidly in Englewood and throughout the metro area, these issues will likely become even more prominent. City staff held public outreach events in September, October and December 2020. Additionally, they have presented ongoing updates to the city council.

In April, city staff accepted applications for a citizen steering committee that was open for all to apply. Your perspective on the future of development within our community is critical. All insight into the UDC is welcome and appreciated. The more community voices that staff and council can hear from, the more successful this process will be.

Updated information can be found on the city's website in the community development section. In addition to speaking at future public outreach events, you can provide your thoughts to commdev@englewoodco.gov or call 303-762-2342. It has been over a decade since the UDC was last updated. After this current effort, it will likely be many years before another rewrite. Now is the time to have your voice heard. Thank you, neighbors.

CHERYL WINK
COUNCIL MEMBER, AT LARGE

A neighborhood is a sense of place – a familiar and comforting environment where its tenants share values and habits, among several other commonalities. This city council's strategic initiative to develop safe and active engaged neighborhoods within our city has enabled Englewood's constituents this sense of connection. One common connection, which is present at the center of any great city, is the presence of informal and distinctive public gathering places. Not only do these places create the image of each city; they equally form the daily life of each citizen.

Today's Englewood offers citizens and visitors a gorgeous yoga studio, small, specialized gyms as well as larger national chain fitness centers. We offer indoor rock climbing, a golf center, a plethora of parks and nature trails for outdoor recreation, cool spots for video games and bowling, varied restaurant and brew options, dental support, a nationally-recognized medical center, knitting supplies and several options for consumption within the cannabis industry. In terms of residential Englewood, a dedicated neighborhood resources program provides citizens the opportunity to recognize and celebrate the history of your residence through several city-supported options to engage within neighborhoods.

Given the demands of population growth, our city is changing and developing into an even safer and actively engaged community with strong infrastructure and parks – a city that strives toward maintaining a sustainable natural environment while managing fiscal sustainability. As we do this, we maintain laser focus on the highly valued small-town feel of our Englewood. For this, I am proud to serve as a Council Member in Englewood. If you haven't yet done so, reach out to engage with your constituents through the many available options. Thank you for choosing Englewood for your home.

GET TO KNOW YOUR COMMUNITY BETTER

Virtual and in-person opportunities available

After a long, cold winter, this summer is a good time to get outside, meet your neighbors and build connections within your community. The City of Englewood's Neighborhood Resources Program provides opportunities for residents to gather, and they even have an online platform where you can connect, share feedback and get involved virtually.

Get to Know Your Neighbor Grant

Residents are encouraged to apply for $100, $300 or $500 grants to purchase supplies like food, materials or activities to enhance a neighborhood gathering focused on building community with neighbors. These gatherings may include block parties, ice cream socials, neighborhood parades or neighborhood clean ups.

Apply for grant funding to enhance your next get-together at englewoodco.gov/neighborhoods.

Englewood Engaged - Neighborhood Resources Page

The city's new online platform, Englewood Engaged, has a page dedicated to community resources and news that impact our neighbors. Read neighbor profiles, share your thoughts and ideas about what you want to see in your neighborhood, find instructions on how to organize your own neighborhood group and sign up to get involved.

Visit engaged.englewoodco.gov/neighborhood-resources-program to learn more.

INVESTING IN ENGLEWOOD

Surplus funds will be reinvested in infrastructure, transportation and the community

On April 19, Englewood City Council approved more than $3 million in capital improvement projects, a way of reinvesting money from the unassigned fund balance back into the community.

The unassigned fund balance serves as a "rainy day" fund in case of unforeseen expenses that can't be planned for, like major economic disruptions, natural disasters, etc.

Englewood's unassigned fund balance has grown well beyond the 16.7% of total general fund revenue required by city council resolution. With that in mind, city staff recommends several infrastructure and transportation improvements as well as COVID-19 safety and recovery measures that will benefit the entire community and serve as an investment in the future of Englewood.

The list of recommendations from staff includes street and alley maintenance, improved crosswalks, streetscaping and sidewalk repairs. It also includes funding for the city's fleet fund (Capital Equipment Replacement Fund [CERF]) and a customer assistance program for utility billing customers.

Additionally, the funds will cover the cost to construct several elements from the Wayfinding and Placemaking Master Plan, including a new welcome sign and directional signage to help navigate pedestrians toward points of interest (see page 10 for more details).

A portion of the fund will go toward historic preservation projects, including signage and markers at historic sites, brochures, acquisition of sites and more. (You can read more about how Englewood is preserving and celebrating its history on page 20.)

"Thanks to the leadership of the city council and the work of staff, these dollars will be a big step forward in upgrading our infrastructure and enhancing the quality of life in our community," said City Manager Shawn Lewis.

PUBLIC ART IS A HORSE OF A DIFFERENT COLOR IN ENGLEWOOD

The Swedish Horse Corral Project to be installed downtown in early summer

The Swedish Horse Corral Project—a public art installation utilizing fiberglass horses and harnessing the talent of local artists—is on track for installation early this summer.

The project, funded by the Art in Public Places program, was open to all artists, from the acclaimed to the amateur. Of the nearly 60 submissions the Englewood Cultural Arts commission accepted, 10 were anonymously selected based on overall aesthetics and what the committee felt best represented Englewood.

The designs chosen range from nature-inspired to geometric, and even a few that directly incorporate elements of Englewood’s history.

Selected artists had until May to complete the painting before the horses were sent off for a final protective coating. Residents and visitors are encouraged to look for the horses around downtown Englewood starting early this summer. They’ll be installed along a walkable route that spans the downtown corridor, between Englewood Civic Center and Swedish Medical Center, for the next five years.

Correction: In the spring 2021 issue of the Englewood Citizen Magazine, an article about the Swedish horse project stated that former Englewood Mayor Olga Wolosyn would be painting one of the horses. However, Mayor Wolosyn passed away in 2007 and prior to her passing she painted one of the horses that will be on display as part of the art installation.

COURT IMPROVES COMMUNITY REHABILITATION AND RESTORATIVE SERVICES

New Court Navigator and Restorative Justice programs announced

Court Navigator Program Details

The Court Navigator program’s goal is to improve community and individual outcomes through increased voluntary cooperation. This helps clients achieve their goals, including their court obligations. The court navigator works privately with the client to define the barriers that have made success difficult and develop a plan to achieve personal responsibility. This includes partnering with existing local agencies to provide resources for rehabilitative services like mental health and substance abuse counseling, as well as other basic needs like housing, food and employment resources. This program is an asset to the community by enhancing public trust in our local justice system, increasing public safety and saving money for taxpayers.

NEW PLAN POINTS THE WAY TO A UNIFIED ENGLEWOOD

New wayfinding and placemaking guidelines help revitalize the city

Last year, Englewood began the process of creating a wayfinding and placemaking guide to inform the design, plan and timeline for new signage and directional tools throughout the city. The Wayfinding and Placemaking Master Plan, approved by city council this year, provides detailed recommendations, design guidelines, prioritization and a plan for implementation.

Quality wayfinding helps residents and visitors identify where they are and find what they're looking for while establishing a city brand. With a well-designed sign family, landmarks, pavement markings and landscaping, wayfinding in Englewood can enhance the overall experience and identity of the city, make information easy to spot and understand, and encourage exploration on foot and bike.

Placemaking is the process of designing high-quality spaces for people to live, work, learn and play. It can improve the quality of a neighborhood, district or the entire city through the integration and celebration of unique and special features, promoting social gathering through public art, music, lighting, uniquely landscaped areas, special attractions and more.

The plan includes detailed design guidelines for all wayfinding and placemaking assets. Last year, in a coordinated effort between the wayfinding and placemaking task force, city council and resident input, the theme "wooded nook" (one definition of the word "Englewood") was chosen.

The theme is inspired by organic forms and colors, and it nods to Englewood's industrial tradition with the use of materials like steel and aluminum.

Residents and visitors can expect to start seeing replacement signage at various gateways around town later this year.

View the guide and learn more about the city's master plans for wayfinding and placemaking at englewoodco.gov.

THE FAMILY THAT

Works Together,

Lizzette Trochez
and Andrea Jones
Sweet Caroline
Confections

Stays Together

Multigenerational businesses act as a cornerstone to the local economy

if your daughter told you she was leaving her successful career in private banking to make lollipops for a living, you probably wouldn't imagine that a short time later, she'd be earning enough income to offer you a full-time job alongside her.

But that's exactly what happened to Lizzette Trochez.

Lizzette's daughter, Andrea Jones, is the owner and founder of Englewood's Sweet Caroline Confections, a candy shop that creates specialty lollipops for weddings, events, parties and corporations, with notable high-end clients like Marc Jacobs and Chanel.

Andrea asked Lizzette to leave her job at the British Consulate and come on board in 2014 when it became clear that the company was really taking off. Andrea's brother, Stephen Jones, joined the team in 2018.

"It has been challenging but very special indeed," said Trochez. "Like any family, we have disagreements from time to time, but my daughter has shown me what a phenomenal leader she has grown up to be. I feel blessed to be able to see and work with my children every day."

When Andrea decided it was time to open Sweet Caroline Confections' first storefront (they were previously operating out of a commercial kitchen in Thornton), Englewood stood out as the perfect location.

"The City of Englewood has been incredibly supportive since day one!" Trochez said. "We had tons of questions when we found our space, such as grant opportunities and regulations about our industry, and everyone was very helpful. The city has also been very supportive during COVID, with grant assistance and resources."

Morgan, Annie and Owen Huston
Birdsall & Co.

Sweet Caroline Confections is just one of many family businesses thriving in the city, where residents and visitors love shopping local and getting to know the story behind the storefront.

"Multigenerational businesses are a testament to Englewood's tradition of hard-working entrepreneurs that have taken risks and built a legacy that can be carried forward into the future by the next generation of entrepreneurs," said Economic Development Manager Darren Hollingsworth.

When Annie Huston bought Birdsall & Co., a garden and outdoor decor store, she had every intention that it would be a family affair—her daughter, Morgan, and son, Owen, were on board to build the business from the beginning and continue the family's tradition of working together.

Since then, they've grown Birdsall & Co. into a destination home and garden store, selling everything needed to transform your indoor or outdoor space into a plant paradise.

"We are blessed to be able to intuitively and effortlessly work well together," said Huston. "We are literally obsessed with what we do. As a mother, I get to see my children blossom in their professional environment, and over time will just sit back and watch them continue to grow and improve Birdsall."

Behind the scenes, the Hustons create a family atmosphere for their entire team with staff lunches (that Annie often cooks), picnic celebrations and Saturday libations. Morgan is now a co-owner, helping pioneer the opening of a new store in Denver's RiNo District.

"Morgan's strengths complement mine, and while I bring the experience factor, she takes it to the next level with the skills and knowledge of the younger generation."

SMART WATER PLANNING PROTECTS ENGLEWOOD’S CRITICAL RESOURCE

Senior rights, strategic planning, and infrastructure improvements protect the city’s water supply

Colorado law has a “first in time, first in right” rule regarding water, meaning that older water rights are given priority. Fortunately, Englewood’s former leaders had the foresight to secure a strong water rights portfolio that includes senior water rights dating to the 1860s. This portfolio has allowed the city to meet its growing demands long after the rights were acquired. The strength of Englewood’s portfolio will become increasingly important as Colorado’s population grows and as climate change threatens the availability of historic supplies.

Even with a strong water rights portfolio, increasing demands and changing conditions within the city and the Front Range means it is important that Englewood Utilities stay focused on protecting and building the city’s water supply.

“Given the pressure on water rights in Colorado, it’s become more and more important to focus attention on ensuring our water rights are protected, and that decades from now, we still have enough water to serve the people of Englewood,” said Pieter Van Ry, Director of City of Englewood Utilities.

To protect the city’s water rights and plan for the future, the city is currently working on a comprehensive Water Supply Master Plan. The focus of this effort is to evaluate Englewood’s future water demands and identify the water rights and infrastructure necessary to meet those demands. Englewood Utilities works closely with a water rights engineering firm and water law attorneys to ensure the community is prepared for any significant changes in policy or water rights administration that may impact Englewood.

Another way Englewood is working towards maximizing its water supply is by improving the performance and reliability of the current system. As part of the Flow It Forward initiative, the city is modernizing its water supply, treatment, and distribution infrastructure through a robust capital improvement program.

“Almost annually, we have a critical pump failure. When that happens, we lose the ability to maximize the storage of water,” said Van Ry. “All of the updates and changes we’re making are designed to improve the water output of the system and ensure that water makes it to our customers.”

FIVE PERSONAL SAFETY TIPS FOR YOU

The Englewood Police Department is always here to serve you and assist in keeping our community safe. But, there are some simple things you can do, too, to protect yourself from becoming a victim.

First, trust your gut: if something doesn’t feel right, chances are it’s probably not.

KNOW YOUR SURROUNDINGS

Take a quick glance around and notice who or what is around you at all times, especially when walking alone. Make a mental note of distinguishing features or clothing descriptions of people around you.

SHARE YOUR LOCATION

Let friends and family know where you are and where you’re going. Consider constantly sharing your location via cell phone with someone you trust.

BE READY

Don’t fumble looking for keys or anything else while going to your car. Have your keys out and ready to go before you walk to your vehicle.

LOCK UP

Always lock your car doors, even if you’re just leaving the car for a second – like when you’re getting gas, going to a mailbox, etc., it only takes a split second for someone to hop in and steal your stuff.

CALL OR TEXT US

Call – or text – 911 in an emergency.

These are just a few of the top tips for maintaining personal safety, but it’s also a good idea to consider taking a self-defense class to learn how to protect yourself better.

If you’re ever in an emergency, immediately dial 911. If you have less urgent concerns, call the police department’s nonemergency line at 303-761-7410.

9TH ANNUAL JEREMY BITNER FALLEN OFFICER RUN/WALK

Registration is now open for the 9th Annual Jeremy Bitner Fallen Officer Run/Walk. This year’s event will take place in person on Saturday, June 19 at Cornerstone Park. The police department is working closely with Tri-County Health, South Suburban Parks and Recreation, the City of Englewood and USA Track & Field to implement a variance and multiple safety measures, which will allow us to hold a safe and enjoyable event.

Register online at bitnermemorialfund.org. This annual event is in honor of Englewood Police Detective Jeremy Bitner, who lost his life in the line of duty on May 28, 2012, after being struck and killed by a vehicle while performing a traffic stop. Proceeds from this event provide financial assistance to families of fallen law enforcement officers in Colorado.

ENGLEWOOD A FINALIST FOR THE 2021 ALL-AMERICA CITY AWARD

The national recognition celebrates innovative communities tackling complex challenges

The City of Englewood has been selected by the National Civic League as one of 20 finalists for the 2021 All-America City Award. The award, given to 10 communities each year since 1949, celebrates and recognizes villages, towns, cities, counties, tribes and regions that engage residents in innovative, inclusive and effective efforts to tackle critical challenges.

The finalists represent the diversity of American communities from the largest cities to the smallest towns. The finalists come from 15 states and range in size from 9,000 residents to more than 1.2 million. They share a common bond of working to build equitable and resilient communities.

President of the National Civic League Doug Linkhart said, “This year’s finalist communities have managed the compounding difficulties of the past year, all while building equity and resilience. Their accomplishments are a testament to what can be achieved when government, residents, businesses and other stakeholders collaborate.”

Englewood’s application highlighted the community’s efforts to tackle three major challenges: inclusive police reform, economic vitality through COVID-19, and emergency preparedness and stormwater resilience following the 2018 flood.

A small group of residents, business representatives, government and nonprofit leaders will represent the City of Englewood at the final competition in June, which includes virtual workshops, presentations and roundtables. The representatives will be tasked with bringing the written application to life through a skit.

Previous award winners have benefited from the recognition in several ways, including an increase in tourism, business attraction and retention, community pride and collaboration.

NATHAN HOAG PRACTICES WHAT HE PREACHES

Englewood police chaplain and local pastor is this year’s Citizen of the Year

The City of Englewood has named Sacred Grace Church pastor and Englewood Police Chaplain Nathan Hoag as the community’s 2021 Citizen of the Year.

Recipients of the award exemplify outstanding volunteer or philanthropic dedication to the Englewood community, and that is evident in the many ways Hoag has donated his time to helping others.

Erika Zierke, owner of the Englewood Grand, nominated Hoag because he “practices what he preaches,” including supporting neighbors experiencing homelessness, fostering children, organizing the Englewood Christmas Store and serving as an advisory board member for Cafe 180.

A particular instance of Nathan’s service that struck Zierke as deserving of this award is his participation in “Thankful Thursdays,” an initiative started by the Englewood Grand.

“Every week, we provide stationary and stamps and invite people to come in and write thank you letters to someone deserving,” said Zierke. “Nathan took up the mantle for this and gathers people monthly to write notes to people who are making a difference in our city.”

Hoag will be recognized by city council later this summer.

RECYCLING MADE EASY

Recycling is most effective when nonrecyclable material doesn’t get mixed in with items that can be recycled. Here’s a quick refresher on what you can (and can’t) add to your curbside recycling bin:

YES	✓ Bottles made of glass	✓ Paper *Do not shred	✓ Plastics made into bottles, tubs, jugs and jars *Remove debris
	✓ Cans: either aluminum or steel *Do not crush	✓ Cardboard *Flattened out
NO	✗ Plastic bags	✗ Christmas lights	✗ Toys
	✗ Lithium batteries	✗ Headphones	✗ Hypodermic needles
	✗ Hoses

Other Recycling Resources

- Steel can be recycled at a scrap metal recycler
- Electronics need to be recycled by electronic recyclers
- Spring Back Colorado will take old mattresses

For more information about recycling and the city’s sustainability efforts, visit englewoodco.gov/our-city/environmental-resources.

EMERALD ASH BORER FOUND NEAR DENVER

What should you do to protect your ash tree?

Have you heard? The emerald ash borer (EAB) has been spotted in Denver’s northern suburbs. This pest is an invasive species that quickly takes over and kills ash trees. So, what can you do? First, identify if you have an ash tree with the help of the free apps LeafSnap or PlantSnap. Second, if you have an ash tree, decide if you want to either treat it or replace it. It is generally less expensive to treat trees than to remove and replace them, and all untreated ash trees will die when infested with EAB.

Learn more about the EAB at englewoodco.gov/eab.

MEET PARK RANGER ALYSSA HADEN

Englewood’s newest ranger shares the community’s love for animals and the outdoors

Englewood’s newest park ranger, Alyssa Haden, is a veteran animal law enforcement officer. Alyssa is a certified interpretive guide and a Texas Tech graduate with a passion for all things outdoors. She is a strong advocate for animal welfare, wildlife and environmental conservation.

Englewood’s parks are an important resource for the community and its citizens. With an increase in use by residents and neighboring communities, this new park ranger role was created to help mitigate conflict and spread awareness of park rules. The purpose of park regulations is to ensure parks continue to be a place where all people can enjoy themselves responsibly. Alyssa is here to help support that goal with education and enforcement.

Alyssa’s personal goal is to meld her experience in animal law enforcement, park ranger technology and as an interpretive guide into a cohesive position that focuses on education. She hopes to introduce new programs such as walks with the ranger, scavenger hunts in nature, geocaching and a junior ranger program soon.

MALLEY RECREATION CENTER COLLABORATES WITH VOLUNTEERS OF AMERICA LUNCH PROGRAM

Welcome to another year with the Volunteers of America Lunch Program!

The mission of the Lunch Program is to ensure that no older adult goes hungry, while helping them live a healthier life with a freshly prepared meal. Due to COVID-19 restrictions, the lunch program has been modified to offer prepackaged, grab-and-go meals. Don't worry, meals are still served hot and accompanied by milk and utensils.

In collaboration with Volunteers of America, the Malley Recreation Center has served the lunch program for more than 40 years. This voluntary donation-based program also receives grants to ensure no one is denied service because of their inability to pay for a meal.

Diners at the Malley Recreation Center not only receive a hot, nutritious meal, but, when it's safe to be in larger groups, it's an opportunity to socialize, enjoy live entertainment and celebrate holidays together. It's a rewarding experience for everyone involved.

Volunteers interested in being part of this amazing opportunity can sign up at englewoodco.gov. Older adults interested in participating in the Volunteers of America Lunch Program can learn more by calling 303-762-2660 or visiting englewoodco.gov. Daily menus are also available online.

JASON PARK: A NEW DESIGN IN THE WORKS

New park amenities are planned for Jason Park later this year.

In 2019, the park's playground was fully upgraded thanks to the help and support of a grant awarded in 2018. Now a concept is in the works for completing improvements to the park. These upgrades include a new pavilion, an ADA-compliant restroom, a new reinforced concrete basketball court, several new amenities and a new pathway and landscape surrounding these areas.

The current facilities are more than forty years old and beginning to show their age. Because of the difficulty in finding the needed parts and materials to repair these facilities, the City of Englewood has prioritized replacing them with newer and better structures.

Additional amenities include five square picnic tables – four of which will be ADA-accessible – one park bench, two BBQ grills and three trash cans. Within the pavilion will be five electrical outlets, five tables, two BBQ grills and a reservation board. The new layout and access to the pavilion, restroom and basketball court will meet all current safety requirements, ADA accessibility needs and user needs – a vast improvement to the present and outdated layout.

A consultant hired by the city has already completed the new design, and the project is ready for construction. The City of Englewood has requested an Arapahoe County Open Space grant for $350,000. The city will be notified in mid-to-late July if the request is successful.

A SNEAK PEEK AT MOA'S ARTISTS IN RESIDENCE PROGRAM

Museum of Outdoor Arts (MOA) is excited to announce that it will be hosting several talented artists for its upgraded Artists in Residence program this year. During the summer of 2021, these artists will be busy at work in several converted indoor spaces in the museum in preparation for the upcoming exhibition this fall. Their workspaces will be converted back into gallery spaces as they unveil their artworks at the exhibition, which opens on September 24. The museum gallery is located inside the Englewood Civic Center.

Get to know each of the artists from the program:

Scottie Burgess

Burgess is a native Coloradan with dual MFAs in Design and Sculpture/Transmedia. One of his focused themes is sustainability and his materials are often upcycled and thoughtfully repurposed.

Annette Isham

Isham is an artist and professor currently living in Denver, Colorado. Isham was born in the Dominican Republic, grew up in Colorado, and has exhibited nationally. Her work explores the dynamics of gender, race and geography.

Jodi Stuart

Stuart is a native of New Zealand and has exhibited her art there as well as in California, Colorado, Michigan, Maryland, Texas and Washington. Her work explores tactile and sensory concepts in relation to high-tech culture.

WAVEFORM.exp

WAVEFORM.exp is the collaborative efforts of artists Sam Moritz and Pat Higgins. Their focus is original digital content, 3D projection mapping and interactive installations; they joined forces to "bring to life a shared vision" through their work during the pandemic.

COMING IN 2022: A PEDESTRIAN BRIDGE FOR OXFORD AVENUE

A new pedestrian bridge project in Englewood is underway, with construction is expected to begin in the spring of 2022.

The Oxford Pedestrian Bridge will improve bicycle and pedestrian access across Oxford Avenue between Santa Fe Drive and Navajo Street/Windermere Street. This project is designed to accomplish several goals.

First, it will provide a safer route for the growing number of pedestrians and bicyclists crossing Oxford Avenue. It will also increase the amount of green signal time for vehicles at the intersection, improving traffic flow. In addition to this, the bridge will serve as a crucial part of both the Englewood Walk and Wheel Plan and Englewood Light Rail Corridor Plan.

ROOT TO RISE: PRESERVING ENGLEWOOD’S RICH HISTORY FOR GENERATIONS TO COME

Unlike most suburbs, which tend to be made up of newer developments, Englewood is one of the oldest cities on the Front Range – founded in 1875. As the area continues to grow and attract new people, businesses and development, it’s more important than ever to preserve and celebrate the city’s rich history.

“We have lots of historic buildings and sites that attract and engage residents and visitors,” said City Manager Shawn Lewis. “Having a historic downtown can be the heart and soul of the community. It’s a reflection of who we are and where we’ve come from.”

The Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) was formed in the summer of 2017. The commission is responsible for advising city council on issues relating to history and the recommendation of local historic preservation programs and ideas, including the encouragement of voluntary designation of historic structures within the city. It works closely with the Englewood Historic Preservation Society, a nonprofit organization.

According to Mathew Crabtree, the president of the Englewood Historic Preservation Society, the preservation of historic buildings comes with economic and environmental benefits.

Crabtree said, “If we revitalize these structures, we have the opportunity to preserve a special part of the character in our city and what has historically made Englewood such a great place to live.”

The city has worked alongside the Englewood Historic Preservation Society on several projects, including the Moments in Englewood History video series, which explores historical events that impact the city today. The videos incorporate real photos and stories from residents and are published on the city’s social media platforms.

GREAT TO MEET YOU!

Rick Castiglia

Who would guess Rick Castiglia, cashier at Broken Tee Golf Course, holds the 10x world freestyle champion record? Rick “Casio” Castiglia, a member of the Coloradicals freestyle team, is world-renowned for introducing Freestyle Frisbee. What is Freestyle Frisbee? It’s one part dance, one part extreme sport and one part juggling. Freestyle Frisbee includes both throws and catches, but with a significant twist: stylized throws, complex body movements by a receiver and trick catches.

With a little observation, the first thing one might notice is that the players are balancing a spinning disc on their fingernails. This is called the “nail delay,” the core of mainstream Freestyle Frisbee, that allows players to keep the disc moving for much longer than if they were just throwing, tipping and catching.

Rick, internationally known for his creative process and ability to discern subtleties, is one of the greatest players of all time. Next time you’re at Broken Tee, maybe he’ll show you a few tricks!

Michael Harwerth

Meet Michael Harwerth, operations coordinator at Broken Tee Golf Course. Michael has a passion and talent for West Coast Swing Dancing. He might not live on the West Coast, but he is “dancing his dream” in Denver’s booming dancing venues. West Coast Swing Dancing, stemming from the Lindy Hop, creates room for improvisation and interaction between partners with a combination of street dance characteristics.

For nearly a decade, Michael has been West Coast Swing Dancing for fun as well as competing around the states. Inspired by visiting local country bars in Austin, Texas hosting West Coast Swing Dancing events, Michael was drawn to the music and dance. His favorite part of this dance is that any type of music will work! Simply, he can West Coast Swing Dance anywhere there’s a beat.

Before COVID-19, Michael and his dance partner could often be found working on their dance moves, and they hope to continue to do so once clubs reopen. He also appreciates the opportunity to step in and teach around the metro area. Looking for a dance lesson? Stop by Broken Tee first for a recommendation!

MARTY GRIMS WILL BE MISSED!

Marty Grims, a landmark at the Malley Recreation Center, will be moving on to his second retirement! With a strong interest in and enthusiasm for health and fitness, he started a new career as a personal trainer at Malley. He decided to work with seniors to help them improve their health and lifestyle. As a personal trainer for more than 16 years, Marty has taught his clients to adapt positive habits that will benefit them for the rest of their lives. Seeing people “week in and week out” has made exercise an integral part of his daily routine. “My goal is making exercise fun and something that can be available to everyone, regardless of age or physical condition.”

What will he miss most? The most rewarding thing has been all of the friendships and personal connections that he has made over the years. Teaching someone a fitness routine and then watching them experience the rewards has been extremely satisfying. Marty still remembers people from his very first day at Malley. One of the most amazing things about Malley is that there is an endless flow of great people coming through the doors every day. “I tell my friends and family that I get to work with the best people!”

Marty’s “words of wisdom” include encouraging guests to try a small amount of daily activity – that can make a huge difference in your quality of life. Stay active and find something that you enjoy that challenges you a little bit each day. It will pay off in both your physical and mental health.

Looking forward, Marty hopes to get outdoors more to go hiking, biking, snowshoeing, fishing and camping. He’s also hoping to learn to bake and find some volunteer opportunities within the community.

“I have always felt that while working at Malley, I have received much more than I have given in the way of kindness and good will. Malley is truly a welcoming community and I feel privileged to have been a small part of what makes the Center such a special place.” We love that!

Englewood's Premier 4-Step Pilates Program

Our 4-Step Pilates Program uses exercises with controlled movement to improve flexibility, build strength, and develop control and endurance within the entire body. Throughout the class, the priority is to promote alignment and breathing to develop a strong core that will improve coordination and balance. The body's core, which consists of the muscles of the abdomen, lower back and hips, is thought to be the key to a person's stability.

Yoga

Yoga has demonstrated physical and mental benefits for all ages. Modern yoga is a physical activity consisting largely of comfortable seating postures (asanas) and moving through standing poses and postures. Vinyasa, referred to as "flow" yoga, is characterized by stringing postures together so that you move from one to another, seamlessly, using breath.

Fit Body Express

A high-intensity endurance-based workout. Shed fat, define muscle, transform the look of your entire physique and dramatically enhance your overall health and athletic performance. If you are looking for results and are willing to put in the effort – this class is for you!

Personal Training

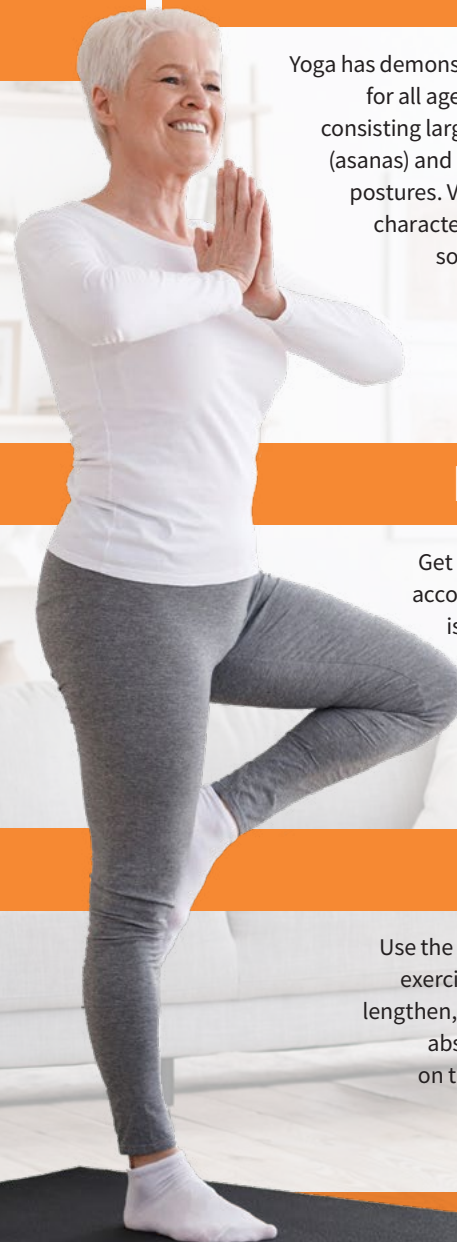

Get inspired, boost your confidence and accomplish your goals. Personal training is offered in cardio, strength training, yoga or Pilates. Work solo with a trainer or in a small group.

Zumba

Zumba is a Latin-inspired dance-fitness class that combines energizing music and easy-to-follow moves for a fun, effective cardiovascular workout. Rhythms in this class will tone and sculpt your body.

Barre Sculpt

Use the ballet barre, light weights, isometric exercises and your body's balance to firm, lengthen, lift and sculpt graceful arms, thighs, abs and glutes. This technique is gentle on the joints, but gives powerful results.

Pilates exercises with controlled movement, improves flexibility, builds strength, and develops control and endurance within the entire body. Throughout the class, the priority is to promote alignment and breathing to develop a strong core, which will help improve coordination and balance. The core, which consists of the muscles of the abdomen, lower back and hips, often called the “powerhouse,” is thought to be the key to a person’s stability. Our program provides safe modifications that range from beginning to advanced, specific to the participant’s goals or limitations.

Our 4-Step Pilates Program takes you from an initial orientation to an advanced level for an additional challenge. This new program will provide a safe, enjoyable, challenging workout for both the new and experienced Pilates participants.
